

[RESTAURANT WITH DECENTRALIZED COOKING SYSTEM]

Abstract

A restaurant (300) and a restaurant method. Restaurant (300) comprises a dining area (302) defined by a restaurant building (304), a plurality of dining tables (306) disposed in dining area (302), a plurality of cooking stations (312), of which each cooking station is disposed at an appropriate location on each of dining tables (306), such that diners are provided with options to select and cook foods by themselves, and whereby each dish is individually cooked and customized to diners preference.